The satisfacment as British Minister was received arose rather from the fact that in him it was recognised we would find a mon possessing sound judgment, great firmness, a strict sen se of justice, and a quite stupendous knowledge of affairs, especially of those affairs with which he will be more particularly called upon to deal. The interests of the nation may safely be confided to the care of a man of this stamp. In the notice of his life in " Men of the Time" the following passage occurs :- "Standing in relation to the Chinese Government as their servant, though things may be looked for. a foreigner, and in relation to the foreigners as one of themselves, though a Chinese official, he has had no light burden to bear." This burden he has borne creditably. The zeal and ability with which he has discharged the difficult duties of his present office, and the position which the Imperial Maritime Customs have attained under his administration, are guarantees that under his charge the diplomatic service of his country in China will be conducted with equal zeal and ability. We are aware that in some minds a lingering doubt is felt whether the long connection of Sir ROBERT HART with the Tsung-li Yamen may not have left him more or less imbued with pro-Chinese sentiments. There is, we think, no ground for such a doubt. In the first place, Sir Robert Harr's judgment is too well balanced to be easily disturbed, and in the second place, there has been no indication of such a bias, though it could hardly As we have incidentally remarked above, the foreign Customs Service was, so to speak, Oxus through a mishap in unloading cargo. At all events, it is a subject with which he would not fail to make bimself acquainted and which he has had peculiar facilities for getting to the bottom of. Webelieve, however, that the agents of the steamer here had previously taken legal advice on the question of whether spelter comes under this description, and considered they had no cause to think that they were running any risk. The assistance which the Waperley har rendered to the Chinese during the present complications, and for which Capt. Danielsen roceived from the Government a descration of an exalted degree, is well known to the French; and as it was confidently expected that the French would take rivantage of the slightent excuse for seizing her, it is very improbable that those interest. ## A JUDICIAL BOMANCE.

A case that will henceforward take rank amongst the local "romances" of judicial procedure has just come to light, and the principal actor in the affair has been committed by Dr. Dennys at Singapore to take his trial at the next Criminal Assizes. The story teaches all concern d a saintary lesson—that evidence, however good, when sircumstantial only, may mislead the most careful.— We have a double object in draw. ing attention to the matter. Not only do we hope to gain our readers attention for a few. minutes while perusing what follows, but we also desire to excite public interest on behalf of two men who, though totally innocent, have served three years of a sentence of imprisonment with hard labour for life. It is needless to say that on H.E. the Acting Governor being made acquainted with the fasts (which the Acting Inspector "General did not loss an hour in communicating) the unfortunate victims of perjuryand conspiracy were at once set at liberty. But it is a difficult matter to atone to innocent men for three years' suffering as felons, and felons, more over, regarded as bad men by their follow prisoners, who, as a class, have no sympathy with deliberate cold-blooded murderers. But to our

A little over three years ago a Chinese supercargo was desputched by his employer in a small schooner to the various ports northwards between Singapore and Penang, that place being the —35 per cent discount, nominal principal port of call. Nothing was heard of Douglas Steamship Company, Limited—3 per the vessel or its crew for some three months. until one of the men engaged as helmsman ap | Hongkong Gas Company's Shares-$90 per peared at Singapore one morning and informed the owner that his supercargo had absconded at Malacca. of what the verdict of the jury would be when Hongkong Rope Manufacturing Company, Lithe case came on at the Supreme Court. When mited—$69 per share. the trial itself took place, Mr. Justice Ford, who Chinese Imperial Loan of 1884 A -- par. presided, told the prisoners that they had been Chinese Imperial Loan of 1884 B-par. rightfully convicted on the clearest evidence he had ever heard given, and that his sole reason for sentencing the prisoners to imprisonment for life, in place of death by hanging, was that the body had not been found. The three men were sent to the Criminal prison to undergo their sentences, one of them dying seven months afterwards. The witnesses in the case had their expenses paid and a further sum of ten dollars each to take them lack to their home in one of the native states; and everybody concerned (except the prisoners), felt satisfied that justice had been done.

To the astonishment of the prosecution, the alleged dead man was found and arrested in the colony the week before last. On the 15th May he was charged with criminal breach of trust in making away with the money and cargo entrusted to him, and voluntarily pled guilty, stating that he had gone ashore at Malacca with the proceeds of the latter and had never returned; that he had never been in any peril of his life from the crew, and that the whole of the circumstances deposed to by the witnesses were fictitious in In accordance, however, with the usual custom, the depositions, so three they related to the crime the prisoner was charged with were taken in full and the facts we have above narrated were elicited. As unfortunately there appears to be no chance of instituting a prosecution against the villains who swore away the liberty and would have sacrificed the lives of the unfortunate accused, a good many interesting 8. details could not of course be brought forward.

Now with such a case before us, and taking into account the proverbially antrustworthy ruture of native ovidence, is it not time that our procedure were altered so as to allow of the statements of prisoners being separately taken and tested by cross-examination? We know the objections taken to this course by many legal men, but we do say that in this particular instance it would have saved the prisoners. We Baron do Cercal died here at 10 a.m. on the the latter with precautions against any conviction rather than give innocent men a better too severe for him. We sincerely trust that will fully lie, and they might reveal certain facts in connection with the present prisoner which of the firm of A. A. de Mello & Co., agents of would justify his being included in the charge.

the Company at this port.

In conclusion, we would add that the two surviboth the Government and the community will do something to make smends for the suffering work for many years. We shall be most happy to receive and acknowledge any sums sent us for this purpose, and can safely promise a few dollars from our own immediate friends.-Straits Times.

Mr. Wessel, whose death is announced, was probably the oldest music publisher living. Mr. Alfred Novello, who is 75 and is still living at Genoa, is thirteen years Mr. Wessel's junior. Mr. Wessel, who was a native of Bremen, was already seven years old when Bonaparte was made Emperor of the French, and he could re-collect many of the incidents of the Peninsular war. Soon after the battle of Waterloo, Mr Wessel, finding the state of trade in Germany in a state almost hopeless, came to London, an in 1825 he first opened a shop as a publisher. He was one of the first to introduce some and during the thirty five years that he carried on trade, he economised a handsome competence.

POST-OFFICE NOTICES

When Correspondence has been missont er delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ----, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.

Attention is invited to the following par ticulars on the subject of Local Delivery: LOCAL DELIVERY .- No delivery is attempted on board Ship, at the Peak, Kowloon, Aberdeen, &c., nor at any private house though named in the address) when there is a place of business nearer, at which delivery can be effected (Postal, Guide, par. 159).

The above Revelation is not new, but has been the invariable rule of the Post Office for many years. Considerable efforts, have been made to seeme its being generally understood. To prevent, however, if possible, any further disappointment in the matter, it will appear permanently on the Mail Lists issued twice every day from the Daily Press Office.

DR. HOWARD W. LONG. CHURCH-ALES. In days gone by, one of the most import ant anniversaries in many of our old country parishes was the "Church-ale," afestival which a originally instituted in honour of the church saint, was in after years frequently kept up repair and decemation of the church. Unwe read how, even in the body of the church, when the people were assembled together for devotion, they not only turned their attention to diversions, but actually introduced drinking. Hutchinson, in his " History of Northumberland," informs us that in the northern counties the church-ale was a very popular institution. The manner of holding these festivats, be tells us, was under tents and beoths erected in the church-yard, where all kinds of diversions were introduced. Interludes were performed, " being a species of theatrical performance, consisting of a rehearsal of some passages in Holy Scripture be further adds, "great feasts were displayed, and vast abundance of mest and drink. Once more, thefestivites of a church-ale were so intimately associated with the sacred fabric itself, that several pieces of sculpture in Cirencester Church, commemorate, these merrymakings, in which music, too, held an important place. In the porch of Chalk Church, Kent, have been preserved some grotesque figures illustrating the merry scenes of a church-ale. That these churchales were not unattended with expense may wardens accounts. Thus we read bow in the year 1603 the pewter for the church-sle at Minchinhaupton cost 26s. 6d.; the best pan, 244.; the two spits and the pair of invention of the clopsydra or water-clock. The ancient olepsydge was of Greek origin. Its action would be very simple, consisting of a vessel of water at top (a small reservoir) and the water being allowed, to distil, drop by drop, as the sand-glass exhausts its contents, grain by grain; and the intervals. being timed and noted, the period could easily be reckoned for the exhaustion of the water. A further advance upon this simple method was in bringing a constant and equal supply of water to hear, as a weight, on a simple train of wheels (like a miniature water-mill). The improved clepsydra, however, opone a new era in the history of timepieces; for in the introduction of whealwork the whole question was then narrowed to the character of the motive, power to be supplied on improved principles in afterdays. As early as the beginning of the ninth century (A.D. 807), a very remarkable clock (it must have been on the clepsydra principle) was presented by the King of Persia to Charlemagne. The machinery of this time-piece was remarkable, and especially at so early a date. It provided that' at the stroke of the hour a door opened and a portly cavalende of knights and chargers issued forth, passed along the little platform provided in the mechanism, and entered ! another door, returning to their places Later in the same century, we find (some little justification for a modern clergyman interfering in these matters!) the Archdeacon of Verone, Pacificus, devoting himself yery much; to the science and manufacture of time-pieces; but, notwithstanding his labours, we find that the monks of the tenth. for the purpose of contributing towards the century were still indebted to the cockcrowing for waking them up in the morning. In the thirteenth contary Dante speaks fortunately, however, these festive gatherings familiarly of clocks that struck the hours, were in course of time greatly abused; and Indeed in that were century the first turret-Indeed, in that very century the first turretclock, in England was erected, in the Tower of Westminster, during the reign of Edward I. (A.D. 1288); and it would seem, from all we hear, that this early clock of Westminsterdid its duty better and longer than its more pretentious successor, Big Ben, who very soon came to grief after his accession to office By the Roy. These birds Sir Richard Worsley, in his History of the accompanied the march of the British forces Isle of Wight," in his, the option of the advancing against the enemy near Brighton, parish of Whitewell, wills us that there is a and their performances may be summarised lease in the parish chest dated 1574, "of a as follows:—On Sunday, April 5, one bird bouse called the Church-house, held by the flew from the British force at Brighton to inhabitants of Whitwell, parishioners of the British at Dover with the message, Gatcombe, of the lord of the manor, and " Enemy met with on the Downs near St..... demised by them to John Brode, in which is mer Park, and totally defeated." Thus notthe following provise: Provided always, that withstanding the (supposed) failure of all if the quarter shall need at any time to other means of communication, over a make a quarter-ale or church-ale for the distance of some seventy miles as the crow - This issue contains the New Scale of Hongmaintenance of the chapel, that it shall be flies-the British forces at Dover were kopg STAMP DUTIES, which will shortly beneath, during their ale." We may also Park. This bird left Brighton at 9.30 km. compare a similar bequest at Biddenham, in but did not reach Dover till 3.30 p.m., the Bedfordshire. According to Edward's " Old slow velocity being due to its having been a quantity of malt was made annually at remembered that trained birds, in favourable Whitsuntide by the proprietor of Kempston weather can fly long distances at a velocity Mill, near the parish. The malt was always of over fifty miles an hour; for instance, in a delivered to the overseers of the parish of pigeon race from Sandhurst to Brussels, the poor for the time being, and turned by which took place last September, and in them into ale, which was distributed among which some five hundred birds competed, the all the poor inhabitants of Biddenham on winner made a velocity of 1,560 yards ner Whit Tuesday." It would seem that oc- minute, and sixty birds reached their life casionally fines were enacted in the case of within one hour of the arrival of the win. those who were absent from the church-ale. On Monday April 6, three birds were tossed Thus, in an old parish document relating to at different hours by the British force at or the parish of Walsall, in Staffordshire, we near Brighton for the British force at Dover, read how, in the year 1496, "John Arundel, and one bird by the gromy near Brighton Bishop of Liehfield and Coventry, by for the enemy near Walmer.
